JACKSON AMUSEMENT CO.

ED DEATON

Announces His Platform for Superintendent.

Since becoming a candidate for County Superintendent of Schools of Breathitt county I have been requested by various parties to announce the platform upon which I intend to make the race. I want to say in the beginning before stating my platform that I have not now, or ever have had, any connection in any manner whatever with any of the so-called Breathitt county feuds, Kuklux or Red String bands, or any other secret organization that would mar the peace and happiness of an American citizen.

I do not indulge in intoxicants of any kind, nor was I ever under their influence, except once, and that was over twenty years ago when I was but a kid.

I have no political pets, nor will I show any personalities to any one except upon principles of justice.

I pledge myself if elected to make my home at Jackson during my term of office and to devote my entire time to my official duties.

I will visit every school in the county annually; make a thorough investigation of each district and will use every effort in my jurisdiction to advance the progress of education in the common schools of Breathitt county and in the State of Kentucky. I will not appoint any person or persons for a county board of examiners whom I know to have any immoral qualities, or who is partial in financial political or religious differences; or who indulges in intoxicating drinks.

I will endeavor so far as it is in my power to extinguish politics from among the public school teachers and particularly the public schools of this Commonwealth.

I will in all public matters entrusted to me for settlement mete out justice between man and man, as God gives me knowledge to see it; regardless of kinsfolk personal friends or party affiliations. I expect to be elected by the will of the people; to be an officer of the people and to serve for the people.

ple to the best of my ability. So help me God.

Upon these principles I have my claim for the consideration of the people.

Respectfully yours,

ED DEATON.

Herald.

Dr. Clay Lilly, Jr., general missionary secretary, of the Presbyterian church, preached to a large audience in the Highland college chapel Sunday... Last Saturday afternoon a public sale of building lots was held by B. H. Herald. Owing to the rain, many who had expected to be present were detained. However, two lots were sold at $100 each to Jeff Eversole and Jake Osborn.

Dr. Guerrant visited Herald Saturday and Sunday and expressed great pleasure and satisfaction in the progress being made by Highland college. More than one hundred earnest boys and girls are now enrolled as students. Bids are being prepared for a daily mail service between Herald and Oakdale. Richard Redd, a prominent citizen of Lexington, and for many years a zealous mission worker, accompanied by his daughter, Rebecca, a gifted violinist, is spending some time in this section holding evangelistic services.

Dr. J. T. Wilson, of Canon City, Col., has lately come to visit the different missions in this county conducted by the Society of Soul Winners. Dr. Wilson is a profound Bible and historical scholar.

This week is being given to a series of lectures in the school to which the parents are invited.

Miss Francis Wise has returned to her home on Jett's creek and expects to soon begin teaching on War creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Gabbard spent Sunday with their daughter Nannie, who is a resident student in the college.

P. M. Hon. of Mt. Sterling and J. M. McDaniel, of North Fork river, have contracted to build two large stone chimneys for the Highland college building. They are being assisted by James Mcintosh and son, Preston, and Richard Herald.

Robert Gabbard has so far recovered from an accident met with last May as to be able to attend church last Sunday at Herald.

Before buying your fall shoes, go to Jones' store and look at his stock. He is closing out, you can buy them cheap.

SHOCKING DEATH.

Miss Imogene Marcum Dies at Hazard After a Short Illness.

Miss Imogene Marcum, youngest daughter of the late Attorney J. B. Marcum, died Wednesday night at ten o'clock, at Hazard, after an illness of two weeks with typhoid fever.

She had gone to Hazard to visit her cousin, Mrs. J. E. Johnson, and was suddenly taken ill after reaching there. Skilled medical attention was called but no relief could be given and the end came very suddenly and untimely.

She was seventeen years of age and was accomplished and highly respected and no death in recent years has caused more general grief in Jackson. She was a student in the Millersburg Female College and would have completed the course there next year. She was of sweet, gentle disposition, was sought and loved by all who knew her, and her death brings deepest grief to the people by whom she was known.

She leaves her mother, one sister and four brothers and many other relatives in Jackson and elsewhere. Her mother and sister were at her bedside during the last few days of her illness.

The remains were brought to Jackson Thursday evening and the funeral services will be conducted this (Friday) afternoon at the Marcum home in Jackson, after which the burial will take place near the grave of her father, in the Sewell burial ground.

Mrs. James McAlister died at her home in South Jackson, Tuesday, of consumption. She leaves a husband and two children. She was a daughter of Jacob Flinchum.

FARRISH ARNETT, Jr.

Killed by Ruck Cotton-game at Hamilton, O.

Farrish Arnett, Jr., better known here as "Babe" Arnett, was shot and killed at Hamilton, Ohio, Monday night by Ruck Cotton-game. Arnett was stopping with Cottongame, who was keeping a boarding house there, and was lying on a couch when Cottongame came in and fired two shots at him, both taking effect, and killing him almost instantly.

These men were not connected with the so-called feud here, as reported by the daily papers. Cottongame was a witness in the Marcum case, but Arnett had never been connected with any of the cases in any way.

Arnett was a son of Farrish Arnett, of this city, and was, as far as we know, a peaceable and quiet citizen.

Samuel E. Patton, brother-in-law to the deceased, met the remains at Lexington and under his direction was taken to Salyersville, his old home, to be buried in the family burying ground at that place.

A LESSON IN OBEDIENCE.

(Original.)

Before I was married I had very definite notions as to the behavior of children. I agreed with all other old mads that well behaved children were at least tolerable, but badly behaved children were a nuisance, and that obedience is the fundamental principle of a child's education, and this I am endeavoring to apply to my boy Jack. Here is a specimen of the way I do it:

"Jack, you have willfully disobeyed me. I told you distinctly scarcely ten minutes ago not to go to the sugar bowl again. I shall have to punish you."

"How?"

"I have not yet decided. I must find some way to impress upon your mind that obedience is absolutely essential."

"Are you going to hurt me?"

"Not by giving you pain. I wish to make you sorry for what you have done."

"When are you going to begin?"

"To begin? Well, that will depend upon the nature of the punishment. Physical punishment?"

"What's that?"

"Come, come! Stop these questions. Little boys of your age can't be expected to understand such things."

"Why?"

"I made no reply. The question was repeated."

"Didn't I tell you to stop asking questions. If you ask another, I warn you there'll be trouble. Now sit up in that chair. I'm going to keep you there a full half hour. We'll see if I can't make you understand that when I tell you to let that sugar bowl alone you are to obey me."

Jack climbed up into the chair and sat there a minute without speaking; then he said:

"Mamma, I think I understand that when you tell me to let the sugar bowl alone I'm to obey you."

"But I wish to impress it on your mind so that you won't forget it."

"How long will it take?"

No answer. I was cutting out a nightgown for Jack, and I proceeded with my work without paying the slightest attention to him. There was silence for a few minutes; then he said:

"Mamma."

No answer.

"Mamma."

No answer.

"Mamma."

Knowing that he would keep it up, I gave in and said:

"What?"

"When is the trouble going to begin?"

"Didn't you say that if I asked another question there would be trouble?"

I turned away that Jack should not see my face, but didn't answer him.

"What kind of trouble is it going to be?"

Since an answer was impossible, I went out of the room for a few minutes to escape being pressed for one. When I returned Jack harped on another string.

"Mamma, I'm not a bad boy. At the exhibition at the kindergarten I stood up before everybody while Miss Brown said now good I'd been."

"I suppose that made you feel very fine."

"H'm! I felt funny."

"What do you mean by funny?"

"I felt a chuckle down in my stomach."

Not wishing the gravity of the situation broken, I again turned away my face. There was no more conversation for a period of one minute, when Jack broke the silence.

"Mamma, if you'll let me get down I'll try to be good."

"It's very hard to be good, Jack, isn't it?"

"H'm! It's mighty hard for me."

"I wish to impress upon you that you must at least obey. Obedience is the first thing for a child to learn."

"Will I learn it any more by sitting here any longer?"

"You won't forget so easily."

Another minute passed, when Jack remarked:

"Mamma, this morning I was jumping on the spring bed. I came down on the floor on my hands."

"Haven't I told you that you are not to jump on the bed? You'll ruin the mattress, and you might have hurt yourself badly."

"I didn't hurt myself. If I'd had the time I could have turned over and lit on my feet."

Jack began to get very restless. I looked at the clock. He had been punished just eleven minutes. His punishment was wearing on me far more than on him.

"Jack," I said, "if I let you get down do you think you can obey me in future?"

"Oh, yes, mamma; I know I can."

"Well, come and give me a kiss."

Jack gave me a bear hug and ran away in great glee.

In the afternoon, needing a spool of thread with which to finish Jack's nightgown, I went out to buy one, leaving Jack (timorously and reluctantly) in the care of a maid, with instructions to watch him carefully. When I returned on going to the dining room I found humps of sugar mingled with fragments of my cut glass sugar bowl (wedding present) scattered on the floor. Hearing a yell upstairs, I flew up to the third story. There was Jack with blood from his nose running over a lump of sugar protruding from his mouth. He had been trying to jump from the bed high enough to give him time to turn over.

If ever an old maid tells me how to bring up children I'll tell her to go and get one and practice awhile.

Road Maintenance Scheme.

County Engineer George F. Horton of Houston, Tex., has introduced the stich in time system on the roads under his supervision. Inspectors are employed by the month whose duty it is to patrol the roads at regular intervals and repair all damaged places and care for the ditches and culverts. Stations are established along the highways where supplies are stored. It is expected that this method of maintenance will prove far less expensive and keep the roads in better condition than the old way of leaving them until they require almost entire rebuilding.

MINING FINDS.

How Bayley and Ford Discovered the Coolgardie Mines.

In the history of gold digging and gold finding many a romantic and tragic story is to be found. Few of these stories, however, possess more interest than that of how the famous Coolgardie mines, in Western Australia, were discovered in 1892—mines which have since yielded millions of pounds' worth of gold. Luck played a great part in the discovery, but it was the reward of perseverance.

In April, 1892, two Victorian miners named Bayley and Ford struck out for the northeast of Australia, but after traversing 250 miles they lost their horses and had to turn back. Equipped with fresh horses, they started again on what proved to be a long, tedious and futile journey, for once more they were forced to turn back, this time for want of water. The third attempt won them fame and fortune.

First they found that which to them was more precious than gold—namely, water. They found a natural well, known to the scattered tribes of that faraway country as Coolgardie. Pitching their camp beside the well, they turned their horses out to feed and started prospecting the country around. Ford picked up a half ounce nugget, and before night they had gathered in over twenty ounces of gold. Two or three weeks more surface prospecting was rewarded with over 200 ounces. By this time food supplies had given out; so, keeping their own counsel concerning their discoveries, they returned to civilization, laid in a fresh stock of provisions and hastened back to their Eldorado.

Within a few days of their return they happened upon the reef that made Coolgardie. Beginning with a "slug" weighing fifty ounces, they picked out from a cap of that reef in a few hours upward of 500 ounces of gold. Bayley, carrying 554 ounces of gold, journeyed back to the nearest mining town, exhibited his find to the mining warden, put in a claim for a lease of the land on which this marvelous discovery had been made and hurried off to the field again with a party that numbered 150 men, besides coaches and horses and all the paraphernalia of prospecting and camping. In their wake in course of time went gold seekers in hundreds and thousands. From Bailey and Ford's mine there were taken in the first nine years of its history 134,000 ounces of gold, valued at $530,000.

Almost as sensational as Coolgardie were the Londonderry and Wealth of Nations "finds." The Londonderry was discovered by a party of unsuccessful prospectors on their way back to Coolgardie. Two of them picked up some rich gold bearing specimens. After a brief search the outcrop of a reef was exposed, from which in the course of a few days they took out from 4,000 to 5,000 ounces of gold. From the cap of the Wealth of Nations reef gold to the value of $20,000 was secured in a few days.—London Tit-Bits.

WOMAN'S BACKACHE

The back is the mainspring of woman's organism. It quickly calls attention to trouble by aching. It tells, with other symptoms, such as nervousness, headache, pains in the loins, weight in the lower part of the body, that a woman's feminine organism needs immediate attention.

In such cases the one sure remedy which speedily removes the cause, and restores the feminine organism to a healthy, normal condition is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. Will Young, of 6 Columbia Ave., Rockland, Me., says:

"I was troubled for a long time with dreadful backaches and a pain in my side, and was miserable in every way. I doctored until I was discouraged and thought I would never get well. I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and decided to try it; after taking three bottles I can truly say that I never felt so well in my life."

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had very severe backaches, and pressing-down pains. I could not sleep, and had no appetite. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me feel like a new woman."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, throat tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

Fruit and Sugar For Horses.

Grain is not the only food on which the horse thrives. In Egypt the khedive's best mares are fed largely on currants, and these fruit fed animals are noted for their endurance and speed. Figs during the fig harvest form the food of the horses in Smyrna. They turn it from oats or hay. The green tops of the sugar cane are fed to the horses of the West Indies, and for long weeks in many parts of Canada windfall apples form the horse's only food. In Tasmania peaches and in Arabia dates take the place of the usual hay and oats, corn and bran.

Life.

When life is young
And joy is brave
We give it longous
Nor in a cave
Easy to hide
The vital thing
Both far and wide
We gladness fling.

When life is old
And love is kind
The mirth we hold
With grief combined.
Then hermits we
And vainly yearn
For joy and bliss
To make return.
